Vol. 1—No. 118 GLENDALE (LOS ANGELES POSTOFFICE), CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JULY 19, 1921 Weather—Fair and Warmer

CITY TRUSTEES CONSIDER MANY UNFINISHED MATTERS

All members were present at the adjourned meeting of the city council Monday night except Councilman Stephenson. Tag ends of business left unconsidered last Thursday night were completed in time to adjourn early.

Viola District Annexation

The first item was a resolution offered by Councilman Kimlin approving the annexation of the Viola district, which was unanimously adopted.

Lot Cleaning

Communications from I. M. Cooper and Annie R. Yard, of North Maryland avenue, complaining of assessments for lot cleaning when they had already hired labor to put the lots in good condition, were referred to the city manager for investigation. Mayor Robinson said he understood the situation pretty thoroughly and intimated that property owners would be compelled to be on the job all the time if they kept ahead of weeds on vacant lots. He cited the lot whereon his office building, where dirt was thrown out about five weeks ago in excavating, with never a weed on it, and now it sports a young forest of vegetation which—to hear the mayor tell it—is some jungle. Others of the council agreed that there are drawbacks to the great fertility of Glendale soil.

Library Report

The fourteenth annual report of the Glendale city library was received and ordered filed.

Complaints of Manholes

Councilman Kimlin told of complaints which had reached him from persons residing in apartments on East Broadway between Brand and Maryland, of a rattle-te-bang all night, which kept them awake, caused by the tilting of manholes on Broadway when automobiles pass over them. As a matter of information, he asked if there was any remedy. Mr. Watson stated that some of the manholes belong to the telephone company and some to the city, and he believed it would be possible to muffle that jar so that it would not be annoying. The matter was therefore referred to him for investigation and report.

Lights on Adams Street

A petition signed by T. A. Rucker, Mrs. Alexander and other residents of Adams street, asked the council to place five street lights in their neighborhood, one at Palmer and South Adams, two on the continuation of Palmer avenue, one at the north end of the crossing over the wash. There was some discussion as to whether as many lights would be needed, and the matter was referred to the city manager for investigation and report.

Dog Kennel Permit

The application of J. A. Benjamin for a permit to keep dog kennels at Riverdale drive and San Fernando road was granted.

Thanks

A letter from Howard Brown expressing the thanks of the State Christian Endeavor society for courtesies extended to the organization during the convention, was received with appreciation and ordered filed.

Permits for Street Work

Requests from John W. Henderson for two permits to do street work by private contract subject to the approval of the street commissioner, were granted.

Grand View Reservoir

No bids having been received for the covering over of the Grand View (Vine street) reservoir, a resolution was offered by Councilman Kimlin and adopted, instructing the city manager to have all of said work done by the city without further advertising for bids.

Maps Adopted

Resolutions were adopted approving the maps prepared by City Engineer Hill of Tracts 2539, 3610, 4325 and 3891.

Candidates for City Offices

Written applications for appointments to city offices were received as follows: W. H. Reeves and Charles M. Murphy for position of city manager; Bert P. Woodard and Owen Emery for position of city attorney; J. L. Brown for chief of police. All were referred to the committee of the whole.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE JOINS NATIONAL BODY

The Glendale chamber of commerce has now become formally affiliated with the chamber of commerce of the United States, according to the terms of a communication received from D. A. Skinner, secretary of the national chamber, and read at the meeting of the board of directors of the local organization at noon today, by J. A. Rhoades, secretary. Affiliation with the national chamber dates from June 29, 1921.

This election into membership of the chamber of commerce of the United States comes as a consequence of a resolution, on the part of the local chamber, that membership be applied for, since it was felt that the prestige of the Glendale body would be increased with national affiliation. Provision is made whereby all members of the United States chamber are given a voice in the direction of matters which come before their attention through the appointment of a national councillor. The Glendale chamber has been instructed to appoint such a person.

Action in regard to the soldiers' bonus bill has been taken by the national chamber of commerce and the terms of the resolution filed with the President, the cabinet and congress. The national chamber expresses itself in favor of:

"First. Enactment of laws which would give prompt and adequate relief to our injured veterans.

"Second. The adoption of such constructive measures for uninjured veterans as would enable them to cultivate the soil, build homes or obtain a vocational training."

At the same time the United States chamber goes on record as opposing a cash bonus plan.

The communication containing the above resolutions and the letter asking that the Glendale chamber of commerce take some action on the matter, was read at the board of directors' meeting today.

The following new members were formally voted into the chamber of commerce by the board of directors: H. C. Smith and George M. Spears, Photo Shop, 219 East Broadway; C. P. Knecht, lunch counter, 121 West Broadway; Ida C. McClachan; Carlsonia scalp and facial shop, 123 West Broadway; Charles A. Flagg, Glendale furniture store, 606 East Broadway.

Mr. Rhoades has been elected as national councillor to the chamber of commerce of the United States; also, L. W Chobe, the electrician, was given a life membership in the chamber of commerce because of his activity in having brought three prize-winning floats to Glendale. The Elks have also elected him to a life membership in their lodge.

A letter from the Elks' lodge, thanking the chamber of commerce for its contribution of $300 for the float fund, was read.

City Manager Watson was present and spoke on the city budget.

A FAIRY HELPER FOR HOUSEWIVES

Housewives of Glendale will be interested in a demonstration that is to take place Thursday and Friday of the present week at the headquarters of the J. A. Newton Electric company, 329-31-33 East Broadway, to prove in a practical way the advantages of the Westinghouse automatic electric range. The term "automatic" in this instance means the cooking that can be relied upon to go on without attention and without damage to the food, thus being made edible without attention of the part of the cook, who can be out calling, if she elects to do so, while her dinner is being prepared in this wonderful oven. It effects a great saving in checking shrinkage. A roast that weighs six pounds before cooking in the ordinary oven shrinks to four pounds eight ounces; electrically cooked by the automatic it weighs five pounds four ounces.

Harding Given Chair

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 19,—James M. Cox, "a newspaper publisher of Dayton, Ohio," was a caller at the White House today when a high backed "editorial chair" presented to President Harding by more than 600 fellow newspaper editors, was added to the furnishings of the presidential study. The chair was made of wood from the famous old schooner Revenge, captured from the British on Lake Champlain during the Revolutionary war and was presented through a committee headed by Ernest F. Birming ham of the Fourth estate.

YOUNG COUPLE ARE UNITED IN WEDLOCK

Anny H. V. Chassee Becomes Bride of William de Lorm Last Evening

Traveling nearly 4000 miles in order that her father and brother might be present at her nuptials, Miss Anny Helene V. Chassee was wedded last evening at the Presbyterian manse by Rev. W E. Edmonds, to William de Lorm. Both bride and groom are natives of The Hague, Holland, though of French extraction. The families of both escaped to Holland during the awful persecution of the Huguenots in France in the sixteenth century and their descendants remained in their adopted country.

Mr. de Lorm was in the Dutch marines during the war, assisting to protect the coast line. He is an artist and will no doubt find opportunity for the exercise of his talents in the new home by the sunset sea. He and his fiancee came over on the same steamer to New York and they arrived in Glendale Saturday night. Already they are so delighted with Glendale's many attractions that they have resolved to make this city their home. They are now enjoying a brief honeymoon at Ocean Park. On their return they will be at the Chassee home, 615 North Orange street, until they can find a suitable residence.

The only guests at the wedding were the bride's father, B. H D. Chassee, her brother, Harry V. and the latter's wife. The Chassees came to Glendale nearly two years ago, buying a beautiful home at 615 North Orange.

PASADENA HAS HEALTH RECORD

With a death rate for children of only 33 in 1000 inhabitants, Pasadena ranks first for low infant mortality among cities throughout the country having a population of from 35,000 to 50,000 and is consequently the best city of its size in the United States for raising babies according to figures recently compiled by the United States Bureau of Hygiene.

The city having the highest infant mortality with a population equivalent to that of Pasadena, is East Chicago with a death rate for children of 172 in 1000 inhabitants. Dr. J. Severy, health officer of Pasadena, also points out that the contagious disease rate is lower in the Crown City than any others of seven cities of the same size in California.

KANSAS VISITORS MAY LOCATE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Bolen and little daughter Beatrice of 511 South Glendale have been greatly enjoying a visit with their friends J. W. Ruffal, his wife and sister who arrived by auto July 4 from Kansas, after an overland journey of about ten days. Since reaching Glendale the Ruffels and Bolens have had a pleasant outing at Catalina and now the visitors are going to prolong their travels by driving up into Oregon and Washington. They will return to Southern California however. Mr. Ruffel has been quite heavily interested in the lumber business in Kansas but has closed out all his holdings there and is now looking for a new location. He is very favorably impressed with Glendale and it is by no means improbable that he will decide to make investments here.

'GLENDALE'S OWN' IS HAVING FINE TIME IN YOSEMITE CAMP

Squads right—Ho!

With special mention given to "Glendale's Own" for the showing they made at inspection of equipment last week and with a general efficiency rating for several days that has brought them up to first place among the companies represented at the National Guard encampment at Yosemite National Park, the local company of guardsmen in establishing an enviable record for itself that will go far toward placing Glendale on the map as possessing a highly efficient guard organization.

Glendale guardsmen were among those who formed details of the rescue party which yesterday went to the assistance of Lieut. Fred W. Nichols, of South Pasadena, who was marooned on Granite Ledge for nearly 24 hours. Relays of soldiers were organized under the diretcion of forest rangers to scale the rugged peaks near Sentinel Rock and lower ropes to the ledge on which Nichols clung. The ledge is nearly 500 feet below the top of the peak from which it juts. Lieut. Nichols pronounced himself unhurt but ravenously hungry upon returning to camp.

Many Take Trips.

Drill was suspended from Saturday afternoon until Monday morning and many of the men took this opportunity to do some sight seeing in the park. The popular places for trips included a hike to the top of Yosemite Falls, trips through the Big Trees, Glacier Point, and Mirror Lake, and excursions by automobile through the mountains to view Inspiration Point, Tunnel Tree, Chinquapin, High Sierra, Overhanging Rock, Half Dome, Liberty Cap, Vernal and Nevada Falls.

Capt. Thomas D. Watson and Lieut. Normal C. Hayhurst, in command of the local company, are working like Trojans to bring the Glendale Guards to a point of efficiency that will give them the edge over every other company present at the encampment. Captain Watson, who was a bayonet instructor during the war, has been appointed chief instructor for the Third Battalion of the 160th Regiment and has for his assistants Lieutenant Hayhurst, Sergeant Webb and Sergeant Alexander, all of the Glendale company. The battalion has also been engaged in extended order drill and open formations under the direction of Captain Watson. Lieutenant Hayhurst is acting battalion adjutant during the evening parade and retreat ceremonies.

Combine Work and Play

According to letters that have been received locally from Glendale guardsmen, the outfit is having a wonderful experience at the Yosemite encampment. They are learning much as soldiers and the combining military training with a splendid vacation up in California's wonder playground. The daily schedule compiled by Lieutenant Colonel Coburn, who is in command of tht camp, provides for the following calls:

Reveille, First call, 5:20; Assembly, 5:30; Fatigue call, 5:45; Mess call, 6:15; Sick call, 6:45; Drill call, 7:20; Assembly, 7:30; Recall, 7:20; Mess call, 12; Drill call, 1:05; Assembly, 1:15; Recall, 5:15; Mess call, 5:30; Retreat, First call, 6:15; Assembly, 6:25; Retreat, 6:30.

The evening is free for the men to dispose of as they choose. At the Y. M. C. A. hut which is located in the camp a nightly entertainment is furnished which includes boxing bouts, sing fests, and movies. Dances are held each night at Yosemite Lodge and Camp Curry. There appears to be no lack of entertainment and amusement for the National Guardsmen. Call to quarters sounds at 9:30 and taps at 10:30.

Lots of Pep There

Descriptive of the fun the local guardsmen are having a letter from Sergeant H. L. Alexander states that, "There is lots of pep in our outfit. Most of the men are former Glendale High students and it is no uncommon affair to hear them yell in unison 'Glendale Bunch' Glendale Gang' and other foot ball cheers. Lieutenant Hayhurst is keeping up a keen sporting spirit. He arranges boxing bouts and base ball games among the men which take mighty well. Both he and Captain Watson had their heads shaved the other day. If it wasn't for the uniform they might be taken for convicts."

The famous "fire fall" has gotten to be a common sight from camp. Every night a huge fire is built on the cliff towering a mile above the valley. At 9 o'clock it is pushed over the cliff and for five minutes it makes a streak of fire down the rocky mountain side like some gigantic Fourth of July rocket.

Company reports show that all men are in excellent health and are making marked physical improvement. The only casualty to date is an injury which Andrew Nelson suffered while chopping wood. The cut he sustained is not a serious one but it will keep him from drill for the remainder of the encampment.

Wants Money but No Title

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 19.—A job as baron is likely to go begging because F. M. Tretbar-Drosten of Aurora, Ill., would rather be an American citizen than have a title. His father, Baron Tretbar-Drosten, owner of a trans-Pacific fleet and a resident of Switzerland, died, leaving the Aurora physician his title and possessions, amounting to three million francs.

They can keep the title, he said, "I am an American citizen and I like it."

He has sent an attorney to collect the money.

AUTO PARK IS VITAL NEED OF GLENDALE

So Declares Local Man, Who Speaks From Experiences on a Recent Trip

A recent auto trip of a week, during which he and his party visited many cities and sought accommodations in numerous auto camps convinced J. Mac MacMillan of 350 West Broadway, that one of Glendale's vital needs is an auto camping park, and a good one. Ten that he saw were first class, the principal objection being the untidy condition of most of them. Mr. Mac Millan is satisfied that a commodious park of that kind, with sanitary tanks and equipments, up-to-date accommodations and a competent overseer, will be not only a paying institution, but will attract many transients, a goodly share of whom will become permanent residents.

N. L. WESTBROOK AND PARTY BACK FROM MOTOR TRIP TO YOSEMITE

N. L. Westbrook of 235 North Adams and his party have just returned from a highly satisfactory auto trip to Yosemite. In the Westbrook machine were Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook's sister Miss Bertha Cole. In the other auto were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cole and Philip Cole of 1471 East California.

They went north via Fresno entering by way of the Wawona road and taking in the Mariposa Grove of Big Trees. After reaching Yosemite proper they toured the valley and enjoyed its various pleasures coming out by way of the Tioga Road, considered the most scenic route of any other exit. It is closed during the wipter and there was plenty of snow to be seen when they passed over it. Contrary to the general prediction they had no trouble although their machine were among the first of the season to attempt to negotiate it. It was a most beautiful journey with rivers and creeks well stocked with fish all the way and as they had a full camping outfit they stopped wherever fancy dictated to gather in the sining beauties. As it is still the closed season their hunting had to be limited to rabbits which were abundant. Stops were made at Mono and Silver Lake and at Bishop, and all in all it was the most delightful outing any of the mtmbers of the group have enjoyed in many a day.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 19.—Ten convicts were missing today at the Western penitentiary following the riot of over 1000 prisoners yesterday afternoon and the destruction of several prison buildings by fire, entailing an estimated loss of $750,000. One prisoner was burned to death. A dozen prisoners and guards were seriously wounded during the rioting and two score more received less serious injuries. The interior of the cell divisions of the prison was blackened.

REPORT OF THE POSTOFFICE SITUATION IN GLENDALE

By HENRY R. HARROWER, M. D.
Chairman Glendale Chamber of Commerce Postoffice Committee

"Editor Glendale Press:—I have recently returned from a visit to Washington, D. C., where I had the opportunity of meeting Postmaster-General Will Hays, the first assistant postmaster-general, Col. Hubert Work, and the second assistant postmaster-general, Mr. Shonts, as well as the officer in direct charge of matters of this type, Mr. Stilman, of the department of postoffice service.

"Previously, Congressman Lineberger with W. E. Evans, who has been in Washington on legal business for some time, presented to the postmaster general a petition signed by over 2000 citizens of Glendale, requesting that an independent postoffice be established here. Naturally, Mr. Hays promised to give the matter very careful consideration and doubtless he has done so, but apparently it has not done very much good, as we shall shortly see.

Mr. Hays was very courteous and politic. He referred me to Col. Work. Col. Work listened to my story and when I came to that part of it which involved the possibility that the Southern Pacific might be encouraged to establish a depot and better service here if they had to stop for mail, he said that I might with propriety see Mr. Shonts, who, as second assistant postmaster-general, has charge of the railway mail service. Mr. Shonts has recently come from Chicago where he was one of the officials of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. He showed me that while it might be possible to make arrangements for the Southern Pacific to pick up and drop mail at Glendale, it did not mean that they would have to stop their express trains here, and he said that he would have an inspector from San Francisco in charge of these matters in this territory, go into the matter fully and report to him. Doubtless when this inspector comes to Glendale he will call upon me.

"Previously, Col. Work had suggested that I see Mr. Stilman, and since I had already seen him previously that day, I did not bother him further. Mr. Stilman told me that the government was attempting to render the very utmost service possible, and with that in view, had instructed an inspector to visit a number of the business men in Glendale, including myself, and ascertain from them in what manner the postoffice could render a more efficient service to us. Mr. Stilman assured me that they were perfectly willing to give us the service but that it was not their policy to extend the expense of the postoffice any more than was absolutely necessary.

"This was made clear to me when a congressman from Minnesota came in and excused himself because of his urgent business, spent 10 or 15 minutes trying to have Mr. Stilman arrange to pay more for a postoffice in some small town in Minnesota that had been rented to the government for $75 a month, and which they now want $125 a month for. What Mr. Stilman said to me after the congressman left his office is not going to be published!

"At all events, I gathered that the chances for getting an independent postoffice here in Glendale were not good, merely because the expense of a postmaster, an assistant postmaster and the other officials that would naturally come with the establishment of an independent postoffice would considerably increase the expenditures without adding in the slightest to the advantages to be gained by us.

"Mr. Stilman assured me that every effort would be made to expedite our mail service and to broaden it just as far as it was humanly possible, but he emphasized very definitely that the chance for our getting an independent postoffice was not particularly good for the very reason of the expense, and the condition of affairs at this time in so far as finances are concerned.

"All of the gentlemen that I saw, including Congressman Lineberger, were very anxious to serve, but none of them have served in the manner we have been hoping for, and aside from another series of visits from

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

LODI, Cal., July 19.—Believed to have lost control of his motorcycle, Albert Lange, 18, was killed near here today when his machine crashed into a motor truck. Lange's neck was broken in two places.

REDDING, Cal., July 19.—Loss estimated at $10,000 was caused here today when fire destroyed four Chestnut street dwellings. The houses were owned by Wellington Robinson, Mrs. Delbert Miller, George E. Mason and O. C. Failing.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Coal operators in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois were charged today with entering into a conspiracy with the United Mine Workers to restrict the coal output of the West Virginia and Kentucky fields.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Harding today cancelled his regular Tuesday cabinet meeting because Secretary of War Denby and other cabinet members were planning to leave here before noon on the U. S. S. Henderson to witness the aerial bombing of the ex-German battleship Ostfriesland off the Virginia Capes.

COPENHAGEN, July 19.—Bela Kun, former Communist dictator of Hungary, has been arrested at Lemberg for plotting a red uprising in Galicia, according to a dispatch printed by the Berlinske Tidende today. Bela Kun went into Galicia immediately after the adjournment of the Communist congress at Moscow.

CHICAGO, July 19. — A sensation was sprung at the "Black Sox" scandal trial here today when William "Wild Bill" Donovan, manager of the Philadelphia National League Club, appeared as a "surprise" witness for the prosecution. It was announced that Donovan would corroborate the testimony of Bill Burns, the state's star witness and former scandal plotter.

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—Two suspects were being held by the police today in connection with the murder of Carl J. Bickett, a policeman, who was killed in a revolver duel last night. Bickett, who was off duty and in plain clothes, was seen to chase a man into an alley in the business section of the city. There was a fusillade of shots and the policeman fell dead with a bullet through his heart. The murderer escaped.

SHARON, Pa., July 19.—Thomas R. Randolph, 32, prominent business man of this city, today is being held captive at Youngstown, Ohio, by kidnappers, who demand $50,000 ransom, according to a letter received by his father. They demand prompt payment and declare they will kill Randolph unless there is quick action. Randolph was lured to Youngstown last night by a false telephone message. The letters were received from the kidnappers and from Randolph himself. Randolph's message to his father reads: "For God's sake get me away from these fellows. Pay whatever they demand."

VALLEJO, Cal., July 19. — Jennie Budzeilko arrived at her home, 41 Alabama street, shortly before 6 o'clock this morning and attacked her husband, who was asleep. She struck him on the head with a flatiron, cut him with a knife, cut a gash in his head with an axe and shot him three times. Budzeilko arose from his bed, seized the revolver and shot his wife through the heart, killing her instantly. He is in a hospital and cannot live. Police believe that Budzeilko had been admonishing her because she stayed away from home at night.

NEW SHOE REPAIRING PLANT IN GLENDALE

Glendale has a new shoe factory and repairing business. M. G. Vaskas with twenty years experience is the owner of the business. The plant is located in the leased store building at 117½ West Broadway. New and the latest machinery is being installed. Popular prices will prevail. Mr. Vaskas's son will conduct the shoe shining department.

W. J. WALSH TALKS TO WIFE IN ILLINOIS OVER TELEPHONE

W. J. Walsh had the pleasure Sunday night of a long-distance conversation with his wife at Rockford, Ill. It took about 20 minutes to secure connection but her voice was clear and distinct, as though she were in Los Angeles instead of half way across the continent. Mrs. Walsh and her baby have been in the east for the past four months, having a delightful visit with relatives, although it has been very hot. The last two weeks she has been spending at Lake Waubesa, in Wisconsin. She is soon to start for home and indicated she would be glad to settle in Glendale once more. Mr. Walsh intimated that he would be glad, too, at the sight of Mrs. Walsh and his wonderful baby.

Missouri to Erect Classic Memorial to Men Who Served in World War

By THOMAS WRIGLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 19.—Crowning the hill in the center of the city's daily life, a great aesthetic center will rise in stately magnitude—Kansas City's "Liberty Memorial" in tribute to those who served in the World War.

It will be dominated by a lofty central tower, rising 280 feet from the ground at its base, symbolic of the "Flame of Inspiration" atop of which from an altar erected high in the skies will rise a pillar of cloud by day; a pillar of fire by night.

Harold Van Buren Magonigle, of New York, who conceived the Robert Fulton memorial gate for the North River in New York and who designed the McKinley memorial in Cincinnati, was the architect whose design submitted in competition with many other prominent architects, has just been selected by the memorial committee. His conception of a fitting memorial was chosen as most expressive in art of the desire of a courageous people to show appreciation for a great service and to emblazon in sky relief a great ideal.

The "Liberty Memorial" of Kansas City will cost $2,000,000 and will stand as one of America's most magnificent tributes. In this most truly American of cities, located in the very heart of America, "Get It Done" is the slogan, and with true American "push" it is done. And with the "Liberty Memorial" it was the same way.

To Contain Museum

An ideal site on a rise of ground facing the great $6,000,000 Union station in the heart of the city was selected. A plot of thirty-two acres of land was secured by condemnation proceedings on which the memorial, and other buildings from time to time, will be built. The people were asked to contribute to the memorial fund, and the sum necessary to "get it done," and get it done right, was subscribed.

Today the design for the memorial has been selected and the work of translating the final conception into working drawings and specifications is beginning.

The great central tower will be flanked by two buildings, one a small museum for records and memorabilia and the other for the use of "those who came back,' a kind of fraternity chapter house for reunions and rededication to the service of mankind.

The base of the central tower will be eighty feet high and chiseled in its great front panel will be the inscription:

"To forever perpetuate the courage, loyalty and sacrifice of the patriots who offered and who gave their services, their lives and their all in defense of liberty and the nation's honor during the World War."

To Be Visible for Miles

Four figures—the spirits of Courage, Honor, Patriotism and Sacrifice—ill guard the "Flame of Inspiration," burning forever upon the altar high in the skies, "a pillar of cloud by day, a pillar of fire by night."

Back of the memorial a great axial mall will extend, a third of a mile long, flanked by trees, and on either side of this mall additional buildings will be erected from time to time and effectively united in a general composition without disturbing the sweep of lines leading to the memorial.

Mr. Magonigle, in his capacity of architect, will serve as adviser in the letting of the contracts and will supervise and inspect the work of contractors as the erection proceeds. "He will put four or five years of his life into the project," one of the members of the memorial association stated.

But when the great work is completed a magnificent tribute to the heroes of the great world struggle will stand forth in heroic size. It will be visible from nearly every point in the city and for miles around, silently imparting its message of inspiration to the thousands who toil in this thriving city of the Midwestern Empire.

RECEPTION HELD AT MONTE VISTA IS GREAT SUCCESS

Is Like a Beautiful Home and Furnished in Good Taste Making for Comfort

The response of the public to the invitation to visit th welfare home at Monte Vista for under-nourished children was all that could be desired and the committees who have been working so hard to make this refuge what it should be would have been compensated in great part could they have heard the enthusiastic comments of visitors from all parts of the county, the guest register even including tourists from New York and other cities far away.

The note that struck everyone who entered the hospitable doors of the institution was the difference in its appearance and atmosphere from the typical institution. It is like a beautiful home, furnished with all the taste, love and kindness that the word "home" stands for. No two rooms are alike, but all are beautiful. The reception hall, for example, furnished by Hollywood, has beautiful rugs on its floor, a phonograph in one corner, pictures on the wall and rich stuffed furniture. In another hall beyond is wicker furniture.

The dining room, furnished through the loving effort and thought of P. E. O.'s, is especially attractive. Here yellow and white, the P. E. O colors, dominate the furnishings, which include Indianhead tablecloths and napkins, silver, glassware, pretty dishes, and all the accessories proper to such a room in a well furnished house.

For most of the visitors, interest centered in the kitchen, furnished by Glendale and which is really a suite of four rooms. To be appreciated in its white enamelled beauty and its fairly sumptuous furnishings, it should be seen. The big refrigerator has been stocked with ice, and ice water was on tap there all day, making it a very popular place of resort.

In the pantry were groceries of every sort and kind, brought by the guests to the "pound party," and by Wednesday twenty happy youngsters and the adults who are to care for them will be in possession of the home and enjoying the playgrounds and the games provided for their entertainment. It will be a joy to these children to sleep in the pretty bedrooms, each different from the others, but all vieing with each other in attractions that will appeal to the hearts of the children. All this was borne in mind in selecting the wallpapers, the curtains, the rugs and other furnishings.

It will be open for inspection all this week, and persons who were unable to visit it on Saturday and Sunday can still be received, particularly if they bring a pound of something to add to the stores of the kitchen.

If any information is desired, it can be had by calling Mrs. Ralph Meeker of East Colorado, or Mrs. O. H. Belew of Vine street.

Costly Curiosity

Maude is sorry now that she took Jack's ring back to the store to be valued."

"Why?"

"The jeweler kept it. He said that Jack hasn't been in to settle for it according to his promise."

THEATRES

Palace Grand

Local theatregoers will be delighted to learn that Bert Lytell, star of the screen, will be seen here in his latest picture, "A Message From Mars," at the Palace Grand today.

Bert Lytell has made screen history: he is a fascinating figure of the silver sheet who once seen is never forgotten. Brilliant—that goes without saying—but he also has the unique gift of putting different sides of himself into his picture.

"A Message From Mars" was adapted by Arthur Zellner and Arthur Maude from the successful stage play by Richard Ganthoney. The story tells of the regeneration from selfishness of Horace Parker, a wealthy young Englishman, through the agency of a messenger from Mars, condemned to shadow him until his moral cure is effected. A series of thrilling episodes brings on the desired consummation.

Glendale Theatre

"Sunset Sprague," in which Buck Jones appears today at the Glendale Theatre, is a picture full of the thrills and romance of western drama, but it is just a bit different from the ordinary run of photo plays which have their setting on the western plains, for Buck Jones who stars in the role of a cowboy injects all of his personality into the play and Jones is just a little different from other actors who play western character parts.

Those who have followed this popular actor's work will be delighted in the new part that has been cast for him in "Sunset Sprague." The transition through which he goes from the opening to the closing scenes of the picture furnishes the theme of an absorbing plot. The greater part of the picture was filmed in the cattle country and its scenes are full of realism. Of course the play contains a love story—but better see it and discover for yourself. It is a Fox production.

GLENDALE TO ASSIST IN SAN FERNANDO BIG FAIR AND MARKET

Every effort is being made at the present time by members of the various committees representing Glendale at the San Fernando fair and market, to secure the cooperation of business men and residents of this city in order that local participation in the fair may be of the kind that has always put Glendale across "big" in the past.

T. B. Sanders, who is at the head of the industrial committee, having been appointed by the chamber of commerce, hopes to secure the services of the Elks' band, which made such a big hit at the parade last week, to represent Glendale at the fair. Confident in the fact that the fair will prove an excellent medium, not only to advertise Glendale as a city but to boost merchants here as well, he is endeavoring to have local business men prepare exhibits for display at San Fernando.

"Local merchants must understand that people in and around Glendale have to know of the existence of their business establishments before they can expect them to trade here," points out Mr. Sanders. "I find that many merchants think that advertising at the Fernando fair would be futile. That is a mistake."

A meeting of the various committees in charge of Glendale's part of the fair will be held in a few days to consider further plans.

"You seem interested in that display of toys."

"Yep."

"An old fellow like you?"

"Well, those are the toys I didn't have when I was a kid," said the old fellow as he turned away.

READY FOR YOUR VACATION?

MAY WE HELP YOU WITH YOUR PLANS?

The Agent of the Pacific Electric Railway nearest you has, or will procure for you information of any one of the fifty or more Mountain Camps or Resorts reached by our lines or through its connections, and to most of them he can ticket you through.

HANNINGS RETURN FROM KANSAS TRIP

Pierson Hanning and the younger son, Clifton, arrived at home Friday last, from a four weeks visit with relatives in Hutchinson, Kan., and Blackwell, Okla.

Mr. Hanning says that Kansans have had no heated spell such as is afflicting the eastern and central states, and that crops are better than the average this year. Wheat made a wonderful yield and the corn is in splendid condition. The rains came just right. Most of the fruit was killed by late frosts, however.

In Oklahoma, on the contrary, the fruit prospect is fine and the corn looks very good.

A New Clerk

"I want to buy an ebony walking stick, please," he said.

"Yes, sir," said the pretty girl behind the counter. "What color?"

"Agnes says she is a perfect 36."

"Don't make me laugh. It must be her age she's referring to, instead of her figure."

'MOON FESTIVAL' IS BEING PREPARED FOR TUJUNGA IN SEPTEMBER

The hill tribes will gather to mingle with members of the "millionaire club of contentment" and the Moon festival will be a gala occasion—which is to say that Tujunga will stage an elaborate festival-entertainment under the auspices of the Monte Vista post of the American Legion between September 2 and 8.

E. T. Theobald, president of the chamber of commerce of Tujunga, visited Glendale yesterday, his object being to tell the whole, wide world that the little foothill town, which increased 300 per cent in population during the last ten months, is going to establish itself on the map through the medium of the Moon festival.

With the proceeds of the festival the Monte Vista post of the Legion will complete payment on the home they recently purchased. Though the Tujunga Legion has the smallest membership of any post in the country, it is said to have been the first to purchase a home. This live wire organization is commanded by Arthur Scribner.

The Moon festival will be under the direction of Addison Wells, a Chicago contractor and builder, who has cast his lot in Tujunga to establish a home. John McGroarty, of Mission play fame, is also lending his support to the project, as well as is every business man and resident of the community. It is probable that Rossi Gish Buck, a violinist of international reputation, who makes her home in Tujunga, will lend her aid toward the success of the festival Within a few days placards will be distributed all about the country and posted on trees and telegraph poles to inform autoists that "all roads lead to Tujunga."

According to Mr. Theobald, Tujunga has made marvelous strides in development during the past year. A chamber of commerce, of which he is president, has been organized with a membership that is now 300, as compared with 33 in the fall. The population of Tujunga is estimated at about 2500 and the school attendance during the past year jumped from 43 to 160.

Various civic projects are under way in the foothill town, and with the support of the chamber of commerce and the business men's association recently formed, it is expected that within a brief time Tujunga will be incorporated, that it will have paved streets and that it will have a modern street lighting system, for these are some of the projects being agitated. The Monte Vista bank is in the process of organization at the present time.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

A Big Flag FREE

HONOR THE FLAG

The Glendale Daily Press struck a responsive chord in its offer of a beautiful bunting flag with each yearly subscription paid in advance. All we could procure at that time were speedily taken and many applied for the flags after the supply had been exhausted. To satisfy these demands we have ordered a new supply, and these will be given on the same terms as were the first. The Daily Press is not doing this as a money-making proposition, for the flags are quite costly and the paper is worth every cent asked for it, but we desire to do our bit toward stimulating patriotism and reverence for the flag. We hope to eventually see "Old Glory" displayed in every Glendale home, and we want to do our part toward bringing this about.

Fill out the coupon below and bring it or mail it to the office. accompanied with $5 for a year's advance subscription, and a flag will be laid away for you. If in arrears, pay to date and a year in advance to get the flag.

SAYS X-RAY IS A CURE FOR CANCER

By WM. L. MALLABAR
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 19.—Cancer is curable!

That is the announcement officially issued by the authorities of the West London Hospital.

Experiments have been carried on in the hospital for months, and the experts investigating the subject have received invaluable assistance from the University of Erlangen, Bavaria, where Professor Herman Wintz has been treating the disease with extremely powerful X-rays.

"Surgery as a treatment for cancer may be entirely out of date in a few years time through a special form of X-ray now in use at our hospital" was the announcement made by one of the officials of the West London Hospital.

"The ordinary X-ray has been only partially successful in the treatment of this dread disease, owing to the limitations of available apparatus. The new treatment makes it possible to use a much greater intensity of X-rays and yet does not injure the patient in the slightest degree.

"The new treatment consists of the use of rays of a wave length which is quite outside the range of the human vision. The current which we are using is approximately of 200,000 volts.

"We have made very careful tests here of this new method of treatment, and we are prepared to say that on a very conservative estimate we can place the number of cures in the future at double the number of those in the past.

"The difficulty in the past has been that the X-rays have not been able to get down to the centre of the cancer without destroying the healthy structures between it and the skin. This has been overcome at last, and so successful have the results been in the women's clinic at Erlangen that all operations for the removal of cancer have been abandoned."

A demonstration of the use of the new X-ray machine—the only one in London—which has been installed at a great expense in the West London Hospital—has been given to a body of doctors, and they are watching with great interest the results of the tests.

MARSHAL FOCH GUEST OF LEGION

(By International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 19.—The nation's reception to Mashal Foch when he visits this country to attend the third annual convention of the American Legion, which will take place in this city Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 2, according to Charles W. Bartlett, chairman of the convention's distinguished visitors' committee.

The usual ceremonial attending the debarkation of the distinguished figure will take place in New York. Following a visit to Washington, where he will present his respects to and receive the welcome of President Harding the Mashal of the Allied Armies will be conducted directly to the convention city.

"Our committee has been besieged by appeals for aid in securing the promise of Mashal Foch to visit cities in all parts of the country," said Mr. Bartlett yesterday. "We have received communications from Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Fort Worth and many other cities. Obviously Mashal Foch will be unable to honor all these requests. Hence it is advisable to establish the convention city as the place where the nation will pay its formal respects to the Inter-Allied Commander. It is understood, however, an elaborate itinerary is planned following the convention."

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

'TIS SAD, BUT TRUE

Take Flivvers to Heaven

Replicas of a certain ubiquitous make of a small motor car are now burned on the graves of well-to-do natives of China to provide a means of getting about rapidly in the spirit world, says Melsom S.Tuttle, Y. M. C. A. worker in Pekin. Since the time of Confucius the Chinese have deposited food on the graves of the dead so that the spirit will not go hungry, but the addition of a "flivver" shows the trend of modernity in the Celestial republic.

The car used in the burial ceremonies is made of paper and isinglass held together by wire. The representation is complete to the minutest details. Even the license tag is imitated, while on the radiator is imitated the trademark. Brass mountings are reproduced in gilt paper while the tires are done in gray paper.

Previous to the burial the car is displayed for several days in front of the dead man's residence so that everybody can see that the spirit will have plenty of joy rides in the Great Beyond.

Kismet

We have come to the parting of the ways.

She who has shared my ups and downse so many pleasant years, goes out of my life tomorrow and forever.

Ah, could but youth forever keep its bloom, what a fair world 'twould be.

If it could but be hers, today, if it could but be hers tomorrow, the vigor that she had when we first drove together that gladsome June time of yesteryear, I should have been content to cherish none other through all the years of life.

But it could not be.

The very willingness with which she devoted her strength to my needs has aged her so rapidly.

Prosperous friends laugh at us when they see us together.

I am still in the vigor of manhood but alas for her, in whom I once took such pride.

Jovial friends crack jokes at her appearance.

Snobbish friends pretended not to see us the last few times we did the beach resorts and the mountains together.

She is so faded. She is so easily rattled. The least exertion sets her wheezing and coughing.

Tomorrow I shall trade her in for a new Lizzie.

Sentenced to Year at Home

Judges do not always like to send people to jail, even when it is clear that they have committed crimes and misdemeanors. They would like to have available alternative punishments that would eliminate the degrading influence of prisons without forfeiting their corrective values. But the law provides no such alternatives and magistrates are often considerably bothered to devise plans of their own.

The dispatches inform us that a Chicago judge has sentenced four erring women to one year each of domesticity. They are to go to church every Sunday—and they must go to the morning service, too, for that is no longer than the evening service. They must be home at 10 o'clock every evening and must be able to show a perfect record of dishwashing and wiping.

The young women were found guilty of stealing from department stores. The law suggests putting them in jail to think it over. The judge thought that they could think it over as well at home and at church as in any jail of which he had personal knowledge, and in all probability he is right. Jails are being made as painless and as refined as possible by advanced penologists, but they still lack some of the refining influences of home. Many jails provide movies, but none of them provide beaus. They have chaplains, but to services in jails a lady cannot wear a new hat, and so loses certain spiritual values.

When is a Telegram?

Discussing a deficiency appropriation for the shipping board in the senate, Mr. Kenyon, of Iowa, descends to trivialities:

"I meant as far as they are concerned. The government is paying for these things.

"I have here copies of some telegrams sent out by various gentlemen connected with the shipping board. I will not use their names, but I should like to see them in the investigation.

"Here is a telegram, for instance, sent to some young lady down in Virginia: 'Can not get down until Tuesday morning. Hotel Fairfax, 8:30.'

"Thta little message cost the government only 25 cents. I do not know what it cost otherwise.

"Here is another one charged to the government:

"'Please mail three blank checks to Shoreham Hotel. Missed Norfolk boat. Go down Friday night.'

"Here is another mighty message sent at the expense of the government:

"'Leave door open. Will be home about midnight. (Signed) Ed.'"

Mr. McCormack: "Where is that from, Mr. President.

Mr. Kenyon: "It is charged to the United States shipping board. These gentlemen are interested, some of them, not only in leaving the door open, but in leaving the door to the federal treasury open."

SCIENTIST TO TEST ARCTIC AIR WAVES

(By International News Service)

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 19.—Harold Bibby is about to set out for the Mackensie River, where he will set free little balloons and watch them sail into the sky. Crazy? No, he is attached to the meteorological service and will take this way of studying air and weather conditions.

He will settle down for a year's stay almost directly on the Arctic Circle at Fort Good Hope, an old fur post of the Hudson Bay Company. He is taking 400 rubber balloons. They are two feet in diameter and will be filled with hydrogen gas. He will release these little balloons at the rate of one a day until the close of the Summer of 1922.

As each balloon rises ten miles or more its course will be followed with delicate recording instruments. Some of the tiny flying ships will carry instruments which automatically will record air density and wind movements in the higher atmospheric levels. Three out of five will be lost, but the information obtained from the other two, it is expected, will justify the effort and expense.

Mr. Bibby will also carry out a programme of magnetic observations. He will build a magnetic hut at Fort Good Hope, in which he will set up an elaborate outfit of modern weather and time recording instruments. A careful check will be kept on wind and weather every day.

This will be the first work of the kind ever done in the Far North. It has been planned by Sir Frederick Stuart, meteorologist of Toronto, and the observations taken by Mr. Bibby will fit into a general scheme, of which similar expeditions to Spitzbergen and the North Pole, planned by the International Meteorological Committee will form part.

WARNS OF DANGER FROM LIGHTNING

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—When the lightning flashes and the thunder booms your chance of being struck is just one in a million.

That is the expert opinion expressed by W. J. Humphreys' of the Seismological Department of the Weather Bureau. Figure it out—one hundred million people in the country and an annual lightning death roll of not more than 100.

Does it make any difference whether you live in one part of the country or another? Get this:

On the Pacific Coast records show that the annual thunderstorms schedule provides for rarely more than two or three performances. In the South, Florida especially, thunder-storms are much more frequent, but less dangerous, because of the fact that the clouds usually travel higher in that section.

The chances one runs of being struck, Mr. Humphreys observes, are not as great as those taken by daily riders on street cars. There are more than one hundred accidents on street cars during a year, but the total number of riders per year by the country's population reduces the percentage of chance.

"There is actual danger in thunderstorms," declared Humphreys, "enough to warrant the individual taking ordinary precautions. But there is no justification for the fear experienced by the averaged person when the flash and noise of the storm come."

He advises seeking shelter, preferably in a steel-frame building. If in the open, keep away from barbed-wire fences, isolated trees and hill-tops.

AUTHOR OFFERS TO ENSLAVE SELF

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

DENVER, July 19.—A soul offered in bondage at public market, that a wandering brain-child may find a comfortable home!

That is the astounding proposal made here by Gene Rouse, Denver author and former newspaperman.

The bartering of human service on the auction block was revived in this city when Rouse, playwright father of a beggar brain-child, offered himself, body and soul, to any man or woman in America for a period of one year in return for which he asks that "Scoop," his brain-child, be given a home.

"I mean it," declared Rouse to an International News Service reporter. "For one year I'll bind myself, body and soul, to any man or woman who will finance production of my vaudeskit 'Scoop.' I offer myself for any legitimate purpose."

Leading dignitaries of the theatrical profession and numerous thespians have declared "Scoop" to be far above the average vaudeville act in merit, according to Rouse, and have stated that if produced it would be a real success.

"I am convinced through their words," Rouse said, "that mine is a worthy brain-child—worthy of a home in some booking agency."

In His Twenties

Rouse said that financial difficulties prevented him from financing production of the skit. "I am compelled to offer myself in slavery that the child shall not go begging," he said. "There is no other way out. And when little 'Scoop' has been successfully started on the road to financial maturity the proceeds are to go fifty-fifty between myself and the guardian of 'Scoop'—who will be my master for one year.

"A brain-child deserves the same right as any human child. Mothers have sold themselves that their children might eat and live. Why not I?" Rouse asks.

"This offer is absolutely bona fide," he declared. "My address is Denver, Colorado. To the highest bidder goes the slave."

So there you are—the use of a living life during a period of one year for the giving of life to a brain-child—and Rouse is still in his twenties.

"Martin Beck, vaudeville impresario; Will Cressy, a star of the vaudeville circuits, and Max Fabish, an Orpheum dignitary, have stated that 'Scoop' is a winner," Rouse continued, "and I can't bear to see my 'Scoop' become a burden. That's what's driving me to desperate measures.

"For sometime little 'Scoop' lived a quiet, unproductive career in a more-or-less comfortable pigeonhole in the desk apartment of Mr. Beck's office. When I called for the child I found its training had been neglected, Mr. Beck stating that other pressing matters had relegated little 'Scoop' to the dark recesses of his desk where little life was seen.

Bondage The Only Medium

"I know little 'Scoop' will be a success if developed, or produced. I want to do the producing myself, but financial circumstances prevent—it costs more to develop a brain-child than one of the flesh. And the only way out is bondage. The man or woman who will finance the production of 'Scoop' can 'own' me for twelve months.

"I agree to sign over one year of my life for any purpose whatsoever, in return for which 'Scoop' is to be placed in a box-office home after production is completed.

"'Scoop' will make money. The man or woman who buys me into bondage will share equally in the profits of the production.

"The market is open. I await my buyer."

Rouse is well known in Denver.

Race of Windjammers

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Two races between two fleets of windjammers terminated at this port recently, recalling the olden days of sailing competition on the high seas. The barkentine Alicia Haviside, with her arrivel here, captured the laurels in the sailing contest from west coast ports of South America. She easily outdistanced her sister barkentines, the Katherine Mackall and the Phyllis Comyn.

In the other contest the schooner Meteor made the best time in the run up from the South Sea Islands, making port first and beating the time of the Lottie Bennett and the James Tuft. By strange coincidence neither of the three crafts saw the others on the long passage until just off this port.

The Alicia Haviside was not scheduled to come into port. She was due off the lightship for orders and was instructed to proceed to Bellingham, Washington. Captain Hansen, of the Alicia Haviside, however, because of a shortage of provisions, came into the harbor.

Suicide Wave

By International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, July 19.—That a "sucide wave" is sweeping over California as a result of business depression and economic disturbances common to after-war periods, was the statement of L. E. Ross, head of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, in commenting on his official report on sucides, made public today, which states that 314 Californians took their own lives during the first four months of this year. Of this number only seventy-eight were women.

Ross's report covers January, February, March and April, of 1921 of the suicide rate maintained during the first months continues California will have 942 sucides during the year, the greatest number of any year in the history of the State except 1915.

"During 1920 business was good and work was plentiful," declared Ross, "and consequently we had only 695 suicides.

"The average age of men suiciding is forty-two," Ross said, "this being due to the fact that it is about this time of life he finds it hard to compete with the younger men in the field. As a result of this situation there were very few suicides during the World War, as the young men were away, and work was plentiful."

The statistican declared that if economic conditions improve suicides will become less frequent, but if they fail to improve more suicides will be recorded than ever before in the history of the State. Such conditions, he said, have been found to exist during the reaction which follows every war.

GERMANY CHANGES COLOR IN FLAG

By FRANK. E., MASON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, July 19.—Germany is advertising herself as a nation with a "yellow streak," is the bitter complaint of E. C. Got in the Hamburger Fremdenblatt. "Do you know the English expression 'yellow streak?" "demands Herr Got. "You can readily find it in the Tnglish-German dictionary. It means a coward at heart.

"The German national assembly decreed that upon the demand of any foreign warship the German seaman must hoist a flag with a broad yellow streak through the middle. He must not only show the yellow streak to every foreign warship, but raise it before every foreign fortification when he comes into harbor."

The national assembly changed the imperial black-white-red flag to the republication black-gold-red , banner. The change in the national colors has been the subject of bitter comments by the royalists, who explain: "Gold is for the past, red for the present, and black for the future." But Herr Got sees in the gold strip a yellow streak.

A physician claims to have restored two patients to sanity by pulling teeth. When they see the bill they will go crazy again.

JAPS ARE SLOW TO MASTER AIRPLANE

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Japan is reported to be building up a navy that can give equal battle to the American fleets, if the time ever comes wheen these two nations enter into hostilities.

There is respect among the naval men of America for the ships of the Japanese navy.

Reports of development of aircraft in Japan are meagre, however, and there is a surprising lack of respect for the aerial defenses of Japan.

Recent tests conducted by the American Navy, in which aerial forces have attacked surface craft, have convinced naval experts that aircraft furnish a valuable weapon for the naval warfare of the future.

No official comment is forthcoming from either the Navy Department of the War Department as to the success of aviation in Japan, but it is known that the intelligence divisions of both departments have reports which indicate that at the present time Japan offers no serious opposition to the United Statees as a possible aerial enemy. These reports show that Japan, rapidly developing her air forces, is building aircraft, but is failing to build a strong force of air-fighters.

The Japanese thus far have failed to indicate that they are a flying race, reports of casualties in the Japanese aerial forces showing a remarkably high death rate. There have been but few Japanese aviators who have shown the intrepid skill which makees for good air-fighting. The Japanese air forces are now largely manned by British and German fliers and mechanics.

Whether the Japanese will finally conquer the air is still a matter of conjecture. There are some aviation experts who believe that the people of the Orient are psychologically incapable of development as aviators. These experts say that only good horsemen make good aviators, and they declare that the Japanese are not a horse-loving race. Again, it is pointed out that the Japanese are not mechanical, and have not yet mastered the submarine and other complicated weapons of war. Still there are those who have confidence that the people of the Eastern country will conquer the air by their perseverance. Others point to the fact that they will always be able to secure foreigners who will man their air-fleets. But, all in all, there is a very evident lack of respect for Japan as a potential aerial enemy.

DEFECTIVE PLUMBING
a Menace to the Home

DEFECTIVE PLUMBING in a house is a greater MENACE to the family that occupies it as a home than a contagious disease. As health is, in a sense, a greater asset than wealth, do not put off having the PLUMBING improved until you get rich. You may never get rich nor live to make an effort to get rich if the waste connections to your home are exposed to the occupants.

HAPPINESS AS A TEST

A public speaker recently made the statement, when addressing a company of young people, that happiness was a good test of the wholesomeness of anything. If a thing made us really happy, then it was fairly good evidence that it was not bad.

At first one might think this rather a dangerous doctrine to preach, but it grows on us as we think about it. Everybody is after happiness. We are not all striving to be rich, but we are all anxious to be happy. Happiness is really a duty. There is something wrong with our hearts if they do not produce happiness. The tendency of work, recreation and fellowship is to make us joyful. Goodness, too, has a wonderful way of making us feel satisfied with life. Doing good to others is one of the surest ways of producing a contented mind. It is true that wicked people claim to be happy, but their happiness is short-lived and depends upon continued excitement and repeated pleasures. The enjoyment of real happiness for ourselves, and ways and dealings, is, after all, a pretty good test of wholesome living and efficiency. A piano was made to be musical. It depends upon how its keys are struck as to whether it is so or not. A discordant life is not a successful life. A good furnace radiates heat. In like manner—a noble life develops happiness.

OFFICIALS SPEND HALF OUR INCOME

Last year's government revenues of four and a half billions mean a tax of about $45 per capita for the support of the federa government. The family of five pays, accordingly, over $200 a year to support the federal government. State and local taxes will about double the amount, on the whole, making the average family contribution to the support of government and schools not much less than $500 a year. We are approaching the point where our public officials spend about half our income for us. And most of our machinery for public expenditure is constructed and operates in a fashion which would mean prompt bankruptcy if applied to private expenditures. Surely our tax bills have mounted to a point to justify busy men in taking some time from private business to put government administration on a rational basis.

There is no longer an amphitheater filled with crazed enthusiasts shrieking for the blood of Christian martyrs. In this glorious age the blood desired is that of the umpire.

There are two classes of college graduates: Those who will succeed and those who are too proud to sweat.

Impossible news item: "He said the American navy won the war, and was invited to all the London clubs."

It won't help much to offer merchandise to Europe at a low price and keep the home buyers yearning.

Disarmament will come in time. The prodigal didn't repent until he was reduced to a diet of husks.

When a wife says, "I have made up my mind," it doesn't sound like good grammar; but it is.

When a politician is deaf to the voice of the people, it is because he hears money talking.

GRAVE AND GAY

Gaybuck—Did your wife say much to you when you got home so late?

Gayboy—Very little, but when I woke up in the morning I found she'd left on the pin cushion a questionnaire for me to fill out.

"So you've given up the idea of taking singing lessons."

"Yes: I found it would take me three years to sing as well as I thought I sang already."

The zenith punctillio has been received by the New Vendome Hotel, of Evansville, Ind., "Only gentlemen wearing belts are permitted to remove their coats."

Guff—"Some bandits robbed the bank and escaped in your car."

Nuff—"Robbed the bank? Well, then, maybe they can afford to run the car."

Just Like Her

He (admiring vase of flowers)—"Are they not beautiful? Do you know, they remind me of you!"

She—"But they are artificial."

He—"Ah, yes, but you'd never know it."

Bound to Find Out

She—"When I get to heaven, I'm going to ask Solomon why he had so many wives."

He—"What if he isn't there."

She—"Then you ask him."

A Parody

The Ford is my auto I shall not want. It makes me to lie down in muddy roads; it leadeth me into much trouble. It draweth on my purse; I go into the paths of debt for its sake. Yea, though I understand my Ford perfectly, I fear much evil lest the radius rods of the axle might break. It has a blowout in the presence of mine enemies; I annoint the tire with a patch, the radiator boileth over. Surely this thing will not follow me all the days of my life, or I shall dwell in the house of poverty forever.

Moral: Equip your Ford with one of the new cuckoo clocks. When the car reaches a speed of twenty-five mil an hour the bird will come out and sing "Nearer, My God, to Thee"; and at forty miles an hour, "Lord, I Am Coming Home."

Father—"Is he thrifty?"

Daughter—"Thrifty, daddie! Why Jack's saved over $10,000 out of that $100,000 his grandfather left him year before last."

The husband was seeing his beloved wife off for a holiday. "Maggie, dear," he said, "hadn't you better take some fiction with you to while away the time?"

Oh, no, George," she said. You'll be sending me some letters."

It was visiting day at the jail and the uplifters were on deck.

"My good man," said one kindly lady, "I hope that since you have come here you have had time for mediation and have decided to correct your faults."

"I have that, mum," replied the prisoner in heartfelt tones. "Believe me, the next job I pull, this baby wears gloves."

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

Try These for Quick Lunches

Salmon and Celery Salad

1-lb. can pink salmon.
1 cup celery.
2 hard-boiled eggs.
3 tablespoons vinegar.
1 tablespoon butter.
3 egg yolks.
1 teaspoon dry mustard.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup whipped cream.

Pick contents of can of salmon into shreds and pour over the juice which is in the can. Cut a cup of celery very fine, and chop two hard-boiled eggs fine, pour over all of this a mayonnaise made as follows: Boil 3 tablespoons vinegar and 1 tablespoon butter, pour on beaten yolks of 3 eggs, add 1 teaspoon of dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, and when cool, add 1 cup whipped cream. Or—omit ingredients for mayonnaise and use any salad dressing.

Prune Cornstarch Pudding

Wash and soak over night one-half pound of prunes. Boil these in the same water until soft; remove the stones and cut the prunes into quarters. Add one cup of sugar, one and one-third cups boiling water, and a few drops of oil of lemon; simmer five minutes, then add one-third of a cup of cornstarch mixed with one-fourth of a cup of cold water and boil twenty minutes; stir in one-half cup of nutmeats. Serve cold with plain or whipped cream. This may be varied by using other flavoring

Potato Salad

4 large potatoes.
1 small onion.
3 slices bacon.
4 tablespoons vinegar.
Salt and pepper.

Boil the potatoes in their jackets, peel them and slice thin. Add to them the onion, cut into exceedingly fine slices. (If it is possible to get the small German potatoes, which are yellow in color, the salad will be just that much better. Of these, of course, a large number will be needed, as they are very small.) Cut the bacon into dice, fry it until crisp and then pour it with the fat over the potatoes. Heat the vinegar to boiling point. Add this also and blend all the ingredients thoroughly, allowing the salad to stand for a while to cool.

Savory Potatoes

Arrange nine medium sized potatoes in a shallow baking dish, add one-fourth cup of water, six tablespoons of olive oil, two onions minced, one tablespoon of powdered sage, one teaspoon of salt, and a fed dashes of pepper. Bake about an hour until the potatoes are soft and brown.

Liver Dumplings

2 eggs.
¼ cup of butter.
¼ pound of fat bacon.
½ pound of liver.
1½ cup of bread crumbs.
Chopped parsley
White herbs, salt and pepper.

Chop the liver and the bacon (both raw) as fine as possible. Beat the eggs lightly and add the butter to them. Then add the meat, the seasonings and the bread crumbs, adding more crumbs if necessary. This will depend on the softness or dryness of the crumbs and on the size of the eggs. The mixture should be just stiff enough to make a paste.

Salmon Turnovers

Make a rich dough, as for short-cake. Take one can pink or chum salmon and remove liquid and bones, and one can of green peas. Roll out a disk of dough about six inches across. Fill with one tablespoon of pink or chum salmon, one tablespoon peas, a little salt and pepper, bits of butter. Moisten the edges with cold water, turn over and press together with a fork. Bake in moderate oven until a delicate brown.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

Byron Morgan, who wrote the story and scenario for "Too Much Speed," is famous for his delightful automobile race stories. "The Roaring Road," "Excuse My Dust," and What's Your Hurry?" three of Wallace Reid's most popular Paramount starring vehicles, were adaptations from stories by Mr. Morgan, which appeared in well-known publications. He is now engaged in writing original stories for Paramount.

Dorothy Dalton's father wanted her to become a lawyer, and it was against both parents' wishes that she joined Virginia Harned's stock company and secured her first experience on the stage. Now Miss Dalton is a popular screen star, and her father and mother are her most ardent rooters. Her latest picture is "A Romantic Adventuress."

POPULAR SCIENCE

The new force of A. Johnson and K. Rahbek differs from electromagnetic attraction, and appears to be an electrostatic attraction, due to difference in the electrical condition of two partially insulated conductors. A semi-insulating material, such as agate or marble, may be placed between two pieces of sheet metal connected to the respective poles of a 440-volt electric generator, and the passage of the current causes an astonishing pull of the metal to the semi-insulator. The current may be so small as to do no harm when passed through the human body. Used as a telephone relay, the apparatus may take the form of a gelatine-covered continuously rotating metal cylinder, over which is placed a sheet-metal band kept in tension by a spring at one end, and at the other end connected by a thin wire to the diaphragm of a receiver. The pull of the spring against the attraction of the telephone current greatly magnifies the variations set up by the voice. An exceedingly loud-speaking telephone results, and of the great expectations set up the most promising appear to be in the development of wireless telegraphy and telephony.

The habitually moderate use of tobacco is found, in an investigation by New York physicians, to be harmless to adults, and even helpful in certain cases. Habitually excessive use, like that of foods, may be injurious to certain individuals, especially in nervous disorders. No disease of mind or body, however, is traceable to tobacco. It is harmful to juveniles.

It appears that infection spreading must be added to disastrous voracity in our indictment of the striped cucumber beetle. The United States department of agriculture finds that the bacteria of cucumber-leaf wilt are carried in the jaws of this beetle, and in the intestinal tract may survive the insect's hibernation, prepared to attack the first leaf of spring. This is the first time insects have been known to carry bacteria through the winter.

Sand-lime brick, one of the newer important building materials, is made by the process of Dr. William Michaelis, patented in Germany in 1880, but now free to the public. In the United States, the manufacture was begun in 1901 at Michigan City, Ind. The industry has passed through various vicissitudes, but the bureau of standards finds about eighty widely scattered plants are now making the bricks, of which the total production, the highest yet reported, was 237,344,000 in 1916. In general about 90 per cent of clean siliceous sand is mixed with 10 per cent of thoroughly slaked lime, enough water being added to hold the shape of the pasty mass. The mixture is then molded into bricks under a pressure of 5,000 to 10,000 pounds per square inch, and the day's run of the press, loaded into perhaps ten cars of 1,000 bricks each, is placed in a large boiler-plate cylinder. The front end of the cylinder being bolted, steam is turned on for the night at a pressure of 120 pounds. The bricks, ready for the market in the morning, are uniform in size, and regular in shape, with straight edges, true angles, and sides that are parallel and nearly smooth. They are mostly classed as "medium" or "first common," a few being "hard" or "face." The usual color is nearly white, but pigments are sometimes added.

STRENGTH OF ORANG-OUTANG

If Properly Braced, It Is Said the Animal "Can Easily Bend Almost Anything."

The strength of a full-grown orang-outang is enormous. I have seen one bend a 1-inch steel bar as though it were made of rubber. If he can brace himself properly, with plenty of room to exert his entire strength, he can bend almost anything; but between bending a bar and breaking a rope by pulling, there is a great deal of difference. A rattan rope will hold him, though a simple menagerie cage may not give him any more trouble than a paper hoop.

The strength of the orang-outang, or "wild man," as the name means in Malay, is largely in his arms. The arms of a mias—the breed that we were after in Borneo—measure ten feet or more from tip to tip. The mias type, which is next in size to the gorilla, is somewhat larger than the ordinary breed. It is distinguished by a darker color and by folds of skin at each side of the face. Its body, from shoulders to hips, is about the size of a man's. It has short, undeveloped legs, long fingers and thumbs that are mere stubs.

An orang-outang never travels on the ground when he can swing from tree to tree, and, since there are very few open spaces in the jungle, he seldom reaches ground except when he goes down to get something. He can swing incredible distances, hurtling through the air and catching branches with perfect accuracy.

Orang-outangs usually live in colonies numbering from 40 to 60, and the largest and most powerful is chief. They make their homes on platforms in the branches of trees and they build the platforms by breaking off limbs and putting them crisscross. In mating season the male and female live together, but the couples separate after the young are born. The mother takes care of them and the father goes off about his business.—Charles Mayer in Asia Magazine.

INSECTS MAKE LEAVES 'WALK'

Queer Creatures Responsible for Odd Belief That Has Long Been Held in Australia.

There are some strange leaves in Australia which the people used to think could walk alone. Whenever there came a gust of wind these queer leaves blew off in a perfect shower. As leaves generally do, they turned over and over, and rested upon the ground. Then they would seem to crawl toward the trunk of the tree from which they fell. Since that time it has been found that these leaves, as they were thought to be, were real insects and lived upon those very trees. Their bodies are thin and flat and their wings veined, just like a leaf. If they are disturbed their legs, which are folded away under their bodies, leave their whole shape exactly like the leaf of a tree, with stem and all. Bright green in the summer, these singular little insects, chameleon-like, slowly change their color to a dingy brown, just like a leaf that has been frosted. It is strange that, with wings, they do not fly, but rather walk or crawl along the ground.

Queen Liked Her Ale Strong.

The City of London Brewery company, whose premises are offered for sale, claim to be the only brewery in the city of London existing from the time of Queen Elizabeth, and it is quite possible that the queen occasionally sampled their brew. Elizabeth was a specialist in ale. She liked it strong, as witness the plaintive note her host, the earl of Leicester, sent to Lord Burleigh: "There is not one drop of good drink for her here. We were fain to send to London and Kenilworth and divers other places where ale was; her own beer was so strong that there was no man able to drink it."

Testing Material in Cloth.

Mixtures of cotton and wool may be tested by ravelling a bit of cloth and burning two of the threads, one running with the selvage, the other crosswise to it. The cotton thread burns quickly with a flame and smells like wood; wool chars slowly without a flame and smells like burning hair. Shoddy, or remanufactured wool, is often used with wool. This can be detected by raveling out a bit of the material, when short broken fibers may be seen. In general, a woolen material which has cotton in it will become more wrinkled when wet than all-wool goods.

Ancient Zoological Gardens.

Records show that King Nezahualcoyotl had zoological gardens in Tezcuco, Mexico, in the middle of the Fifteenth century, and in the next century Cortez found aviaries and fish ponds at Iztapalapan. Montezuma II, emperor of Mexico in the beginning of the Sixteenth century, had large collections of animals in the gardens of his capital.

Almost all of the modern zoological gardens date from comparatively recent years, and contain large collections of fine animals, more suitably housed than at any time in the history of the world.

MISS WYOMING WHO HELPED WEST IS HONORED BY EAST

Girl Who Was Picked to Pose for the Famous Poster Guest of President

(By International News Service.)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 19.—With the announcement that the famous "Miss Wyoming" has been selected as honorary chairman of the committee of judges to select the world's champion all-around woman rider in the McAlpin Trophy contest at Cheyenne Frontier Days during the last week in July, in which she will be the first woman thus honored in the history of Western cowboy sports, an interesting little "inside story" of unselfish service on behalf of the West and its reward is revealed.

Two years ago a newspaper man was sent out from New York, bringing the design of the now famous 1919 "Miss Wyoming" poster, complete but for the figure of "Miss Wyoming" herself drawing aside the curtain which reveals the bucking broncho of the noted roundup.

It has been specified that none but a real Western girl should pose for the "Miss Wyoming" figure, and the correspondent arrived, a stranger from the East, to select the model.

A prominent Cheyenne society maid was invited to pose and refused coldly. Another was asked, and again the designer was snubbed. Another and another followed the lead of the other members of the local "400." Time grew short; a dozen had been asked, and still no model.

Then Miss Helen Bonham was suggested for the part, and in her the designer found a real cowgirl, almost the perfect type for the figure. "It will be hard work," she was told, "and others have refused to help," but she only laughed.

"If it will help Frontier Days and the West I will be glad to do it," Miss Bonham replied, and for a week the maid went through the gruelling work of posing for dozens of pictures until at last the right one was made.

The poster was published everywhere, and Miss Bonham, as "Miss Wyoming," was started on the road to fame.

Then the trip to the East as the State's messenger in delivering the Frontier Days invitations to the country's notables was suggested. Now, with the prospect of meeting the President, the Mayors, the Governors and being entertained as a celebrity by the greatest cities of the East, the maids who had before spurned the idea of posing and who had snubbed the Eastern correspondent suggesting it, all clamored to be chosen. "It should be some of us who are prominent," they said.

But Mis Bonham, as "Miss Wyoming," was by then not only prominent, she was famous, and the maid who, Cinderella-like, has risen from obscurity through her desire to help the West, went, as all newspaper readers know.

Entertained at the White House by President Harding, by New York millionaires, Mayors, Governors, the country's greatest society folk and women's clubs, this little Western Cinderella charmed all by her graciousness and personality. In the meanwhile the girls who had "cold shouldered" the stranger from the East gnashed their teeth in dismay.

And now, with every cowgirl in the West in the contest to win the world's championship riding title at the great Frontier Days sports, with the gold, silver and diamond McAlphin Trophy and the attended trip to New York for its presentation as the prize "Miss Wyoming" is again honored, and on her badge of judgeship will be the inscription:

The Catch

A man remarked that he came from a very large family.

"How many of you are there?" he was asked.

"Well, there are ten of us boys," he said, "and each of us had a sister."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the other. "Then there were twenty of you?"

"No," said the boastful man, "only eleven."

CAVES OF GAS MAY REVEAL OIL

(By International News Service)

THE PAS, Manitoba, July 19.—"The spirits of the bears are angry." That is what the Swampy Cree Indians of Shoal Lake say when they hear the Pasquia Hills growl in their subterranean caverns with a noise like thunder. White men say it is the earth, and prospectors are preparing to search the region for oil.

Forty years ago the Swampy Crees built their village on Shoal Lake. hills growled at them then. It meant bad medicine, and their hunters were afraid to venture into the haunted uplands. Black Bear, the chief whose totem was the bear, had a dream one night that cleared the mystery. Beneath the hills the spirits of all the bears that had died through all the ages were imprisoned. So when the thunderous rumblings boomed from the hills, the Indians said, "The spirits of the bears are angry."

Two years ago an educated Indian from eastern Canada went to Shoal Lake to teach school. He laughed at the tribal superstition and hunted and fished frequently among the hills. On one of his expeditions he discovered a little stream of oil trickling from a cliff. He told his find at Red Earth, a fur post of the Hudson's Bay Company that is disposing of its rich farm lands in the prairie provinces to settlers. An oil expert was sent for. The manager of the post and the oil man set out in a canoe on Man river, with the Indian as guide. For miles the Indian paddled. Then he dropped the paddle in the boat.

"No," he said, firmly, "I won't do it. You have promised me a fortune, but you won't keep your promises. If we find oil you will stake your claims and grow rich. But you will give me only a cigar or, perhaps, a few dollars. That will be enough, you think, for an Indian. I will never guide a white man to the oil."

The Pasquia Hills have growled more savagely than ever this Spring. To the white prospectors preparing to go in, the earth is calling a welcome to the hoarded wealth it has grown weary of hiding. But to the Indians the grizzly phantoms imprisoned beneath the rocks are snarling out a threat against the proposed invasion of their sacred fastnesses.

"Stay away," they say to the white men. "The spirits of the bears are angry."

CONVERTED JEWISH EVANGELIST TALKS

Rev. E. P. Lyon, a converted Jew, will preach tonight at the Christian and Missionary Alliance chapel, 310 East Chestnut street. He has been an evangelist for 16 years. A remarkable statement attributed to him is that 200,000 Jews have been converted to the Christian religion in the past year. This is more than in all the years preceding since Christ died.

LOVELAND, Colo., July 19.—An unidentified burglar was shot and instantly killed here early today by L. C. Richmond, an automobile dealer. Richmond, who occupies a room over his garage, told county officials that he heard a noise in the shop about 3 a. m. Loading his gun with buckshot, he crept downstairs and fired point-blank at a man leaving the shop with valuable accessories. The burglar's body was perforated with buckshot.

Report of Postoffice Situation in Glendale

the postoffice inspectors, I fear that we are destined to failure.

"Of course, I showed the figures for the postoffice sales for this last year, and incidentally showed them what a large per cent of the Glendale postoffice business was paid by me, and while this caused quite a little surprise, it did not cause very much action, save to have them compliment me on the amount of money I was able to pay Uncle Sam.

"It may be that as a result of my efforts the United States government will give us one or two postal clerks in the new administration building of the Harrower laboratory to facilitate the sorting and cancelling of the mail before it leaves our building, always provided, Mr. Stilman informed me, that we would still be willing to carry the mail in sacks to the postoffice, as we have done heretofore.

"As the matter now stands, an inspector is coming down from San Francisco to go into the matter of the railway mail aspect of this with the view to helping us, if possible, to coerce the Southern Pacific to stop here more frequently. Another inspector is to come from the Los Angeles district to interview the business men here and then, after quite a good deal of correspondence and consuming of time, doubtless we will receive one of the customary notes that the postmaster-general regrets to inform us that so and so, and so and so, etc.

"I have spent a great many dollars and hours in the attempt to secure a postoffice for Glendale and I fear that it will go the same way as the soldiers' bonus, and for the same reason.

"All of which is respectfully submitted."

"Yours very truly,
"HENRY R. HARROWER, M. D."

Melon Grows Fast

(By International News Service)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., July 19.—One of the leading farmers living near here, who for evident reasons wishes to keep his name a secret, has an extensive watermelon patch which is showing remarkable growth.

One night recently he measured a big melon in the patch. He measured the same melon next morning and found that it had grown four inches in length during the night. This is only one example of the growth of things during these intermittent rains and hot days.

The Red Trail

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning Rev. W. E. Edmonds, in preparation for the Twilight Communion service of the evening, took as his text, "And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where ye are: and when I see the blood I will pass over you." "And ye shall observe this thing for an ordinance to thee and to thy sons forever." (Ex. 12:13, 27.)

Do you know what forever means? Earth has no definition, it is only in the vocabulary of heaven. God said the passover was to be forever. That year, 1491 B. C., was the most memorable in the history of ancient Israel, and its greatest day the fourteenth of Nisan. With yesterday bondage was forever. Now God had told Moses this night He was going to make bare His mighty arm for their deliverance.—with one condition: every Israelite household must sacrifice a lamb and sprinkle its blood on the door posts; the father must do thus; "and when I see the blood I will pass over you." In Egypt that night was a mighty crescendo of sorrow. But with the Israelites all were ready; the fathers all had made the preparations. Get the blood out on your door, every brother; get ready your family's protection.

Go back and see the beginning of this red trail of blood—back to Eden. And follow down after this great night in Egypt, to the tabernacle in the wilderness. Therein stood foremost the altar of sacrifice, always with the blood of atonement. And always, "when I see the blood I will pass over you."

Come on down to another fourteenth day of Nisan, in Jerusalem; the Lord's Supper. He said, "This is my body; eat in remembrance of me." And the cup "in remembrance" of the blood to be shed. Without this we have no right here. Now we will go along farther, into the future. John in his prophetic vision saw Christ crowned with many crowns: His vesture dipped in blood, the Sacrifice. But there are those, nowadays who say, "We will have no blood in our religion, only good deeds." We would not minimize good deeds, but all the reward they will get is here. For the beyond you must have the blood of Jesus Christ. We must see the Substitute; somebody must die for my sin: I must or He must.

This memorial is to be celebrated forever, through eternity. Now, right here; in the future, in heaven. These other things end; this will never end.

If this be the very last question I may ask you, I ask this: My brother, are you sheltered in the blood?

DO YOU KNOW—That if you sign and mail coupon on the right you can get, without any obligation, full details as to how you can make your money work for you with best results?

DO YOU KNOW—That we do not wish to hear from mere curiosity seekers, but from those who desire to make a safe and sane investment, from $50 to $5000?

DO YOU KNOW—That you are to be the judge and jury, and we do not want you unless you are a satisfied partner.

MAIL THIS COUPON

I am interested in the LISTMAN PLAN of cooperative finance companies and desire detailed information as to how it is available to the small investor.

This is without obligation on my part.
